Supporting a loved one through their battle with addiction can be a journey of its own. As a family member or close friend, remember that taking care of our own mental health is just as important. 💙

You can nurture yourself through self-care practices such as:

- Joining a local support group
- Calling our 24/7 hotline to speak with a Certified Recovery Specialist
- Connecting on social media for information and understanding

Whichever way you choose, remember that you have resources to aid your journey. @ConnectProtectRecover offers FREE family supports, along with SUD treatment and recovery services to help you and your loved one each navigate your path. You're not alone in this.

 Reach out at 412-325-7550, or visit ConnectProtectRecover.org to learn more how you can get the support you BOTH need!
